Instagram Competition: Watch OFSL’s Instagram account (csu_fsl) daily during NHPW to post your responses to common excuses for hazing (see Sigma Nu’s #40 answers campaign). Post a photo to Instagram with the hashtags #40answers and #endhazing to participate.

CSU’s Dean of Students, Jody Donovan, will email students to kick off NHPW. She’ll set some community expectations for the ways we treat one another, unveil a new website to offer resources for hazing and a mechanism to report hazing at the University level: www.endhazing.colostate.edu, ask students to participate in a CSU-specific survey regarding hazing, and encourage participation in NHPW educational opportunities.

As an organization, respond to common excuses for hazing throughout the week. Use #endhazing to participate!

Table on the Plaza from 11:00 am-2:00 pm
- Sport Clubs, SLiCE and Campus Service Officers will staff a table asking students to write alternatives to hazing and take a photo with their idea, using the hashtag #endhazing

Attend the Hazing Awareness Panel from 7:00-8:30 pm in the LSC Ballroom B. Panelists are:

- Jimmy Stewart, CSU Health Network Counseling Services Counselor for Student-Athletes
- Sam Tokar, Chapter President of Pi Kappa Alpha
- Joslyn McGriff, Director of Education & Curriculum Design, Synergos
- Dr. Albert Bimper, Senior Associate Athletics Director for Diversity & Inclusion/Assistant Professor in Ethnic Studies
- Alex Smith, Head Coach for Men’s Lacrosse Sport Club Team

Follow up from the Presidents Forum education in chapter meetings to engage the larger fraternity & sorority community

Email from the Dean of Students with a reminder to complete the survey

Hazing: The Fallout
7:00-8:30 pm in the Lincoln Center Performance Center

As a first generation college student, Travis went off to school not knowing what to expect. The chance to attend college came as a result of his abilities as a high school football player, and when summer camp opened for the football team he was among the first to get the “rookie treatment.” The only thing worse was his fraternity pledging experience.

Travis left college after his first semester, before the school had the chance to kick him out. In his keynote, Hazing: The Fallout, Travis tells his story of the pain and hidden harm caused by his hazing experiences. Travis went on to complete his college career at another institution, and today is the Associate Dean of Students at Cornell University in Ithaca, NY.

Hazing: The Fallout is a fresh, new look at hazing from the perspective of a victim with a background that contributed to the severity of the impact. Travis’ emotional and powerful story is the perfect way to give your students a wake-up call about the hidden harm of hazing.
